

Adding value to Turkey's economy

Founded in 2003, Rapro's know-how is based on the 45 years' of experience of its founder Mr. Gian Giacomo Ragusin who holds the distinction of being one of the first rubber parts manufacturers and exporters in Turkey. Today, RAPRO continues to contribute to Turkey's economy with more than 9,500 types of product and exports to 52 countries on 6 continents from its 35,000 m2 production facility and logistics center. Ending 2017 with 40% YOY growth, RAPRO predicts additional growth of 25% for 2018 with new countries and markets it will add to its portfolio thanks to new market analyses, participation at fairs and marketing activities. RAPRO continues with its break-neck growth and investments thanks to being goal orientated and sustainable quality understanding and began work in 2018 towards having a R&D center to produce high added-value products.

RAPRO focuses on high technology for its rubber production and aims to offer high-quality products and innovative and long-lasting solutions in its services and to increase company value by increasing profitability and reducing costs to become a leading player to global standards in the global automotive industry. The company aims to play a role in shaping the future of its customers, business partners and employees with its products and services.
